

Divine Rhythm Seeks Worship Art Volunteers

Divine Rhythm, the yearly gathering of young adults, is seeking volunteers to join our worship arts teams. We are seeking young people who are planning to attend the event in January of 2010, and who want to lift up their gifts in visual arts, dance, and drama.

Participants would join teams composed of young adults from across the Holston Conference. Each of the teams will be limited in size, and preparations and rehearsals are beginning soon, so please contact the Team Leaders before November 16th. For more information on Divine Rhythm, go to www.divinerhythm.com.

Dance Team: People with previous dance experience should email their name, phone number, and address to our choreographer, Tina Morgan, at tina@wesleymemumc.org. The team will meet for one or two intensive rehearsals during November and December, and also before and during the Divine Rhythm event.

Drama Team: Actors should contact the team leader and director, Hannah Wilson, at hannahwilson@gmail.com. Please include your name, phone number, and physical address. Rehearsals will be scheduled according to the teams availability, but will include practice time before the event on Friday and during the Saturday free time.

Visual Artists: This year's Divine Rhythm theme is Heartfelt Grace. We are looking for pieces in any medium that fit this theme for use in prayer centers and the main altar on stage. We are especially interested in a potter with access to a portable kiln who can create and fire pieces during the event. All submissions should be clearly marked so that they may be returned at the conclusion of the event. For more information, contact Eric Doolittle at ericdoolittle@gmail.com or 423-801-0801.
